A party of 15 or 18 young people, ladies and gentlemen, returned yester-day afternoon and last evening from a delightful entertainment given Friday night near the place of A. T. Mial, Esq., 16 miles from the city. The first feature of the entertainment took place at Frazier's school house, less than a quar-ter of a mile from Mr. Mial's residence, and consisted of charades, tableaux and minstrelsy. Some city talent was very conspicuous in the entertainment, which passed off most pleasantly, and to the entire satisfaction of all present. After this the crowd adjourned to the residence of Mrs. Goodloe, near by, where a dime party was given. The object of the entertainments was to raise money to build and furnish a Good Templar's lodge room in the neighborhood, and the results were very gratify-

Dull Court Week. The term of court which ended yesterday was as dull a session as was ever known. Very few people were in at-tendance, and the city was not perceptibly enlivened by the presence of the court. Court week ain't like it used to be anyhow. We recollect the time, in our old town, when the peeple all came to court, and fought and sold cider out of the 'hind end of their wagons; when people talking about betting on horse races had either to put up or shut up, and when, in consequence of a five-cent game of seven-up, we have seen fur and blood cover the face of the earth as the waters cover the great deep. North Carolina Railroad Company vs. Swepson and Mendanhall: on motion, judgment set aside and cause recommitted to referee for further report.

Orange is a county rich in traditions, and its court house abounds in many "quaint and curious columns of forgotten lore." A special reporter of the News, who is just from Hillsboro, was shown by a friend there a dusty and faded docket of the "trial causes to Hillsboro Supreme Court, term A. Last Wodnesday he took the blade of his knife and, in his desperation, "gouged" down into the toe, bringing out the nail and with it a quantity of flesh, the hole left being large enough to admit the end of his little finger. As a matter of course his suffering was very considerable. He his suffering was very considerable. He could hardly walk at all during Thursday and Friday, and Friday night he determined to see what virtue there was in blue glass. So taking a blue glass lamp the blue glass, so taking a blue glass tamp chimney he put it over the sore toe, and put himself in such position that the light from a lamp might shine on the toe through the blue glass chimney. Whatever the glass may have had to do with it, when he got up yesterday morning the pain was gone; he put on his shoes and underwent no more suffering or inconvenience. It is needless to say that our young friend is a convert to the blue glass theory.

A Reminiscence.

[CONTINUED.] It would, in all probability, be useless to enter into any minute description of what is known in Raleigh as the Governor's Palace or recall to mind the list of illustrious men and noble women who, in times gone by, have resided within its walls. The history of the old mansion of Carolina's chosen rulers has doubtless descended from sire to son until the oft repeated story is familiar perhaps to a majority of the school children of the present day. It is, however fast hastening to decay, and before another decade shall roll around, the 'lone relic of the past, the old mouldering pile' with all its historic associations will be buried in oblivion, subject, only, to such an exercise of a fireside tale. It was this building that Sherman selected for his headquarthat Sherman selected for his headquar-ters during the occupation, and it was thither that the writer wended his way. On the route he met Mr. A. L. Lougee (now deceased) to whom he related the difficulties by which he was surrounded. That gentleman, being an old printer, seemed much exercised over what he considered an abridgement of the "freedom of the press," and offered his condence and services under the emergency, giving however his opinion, that it was best to plead igno-rance and throw the blame where it seemed properly to belong—upon the newly appointed editor. Thus prompt-ed, the writer arrived at the outer gate of the premises. A guard on duty demanded his business. The writer replied that he had called in obedience to a summons from the commander-in-chief. Gen. Sherman. The guard replied that it would be necessary to send in a card, and, if the General should so direct, that then an interview could be had. He gave as a reason for this course that Gen. Sherman had given special direc-tions to admit no one, outside of his staff, on that day, as army matters of the utmost importance were to be discussed. The card was sent and, after a delay of some fifteen minutes, the writer was invited to "walk in." Passing the guard on duty at the door he entered the right-hand room and found himself in the presence of about a half dozen Federal officers prominent among whom was General Sherman. They did not appear to be transacting business of an important kind, but were carrying on, what might be termed, a jovial conversation, to which the pres-ence of several decanters containing va-rious kinds of liquors seemed to add zeal. A remark made by General Sher-man to one of the officers particularly attracted the attention of the writer It was something like the follow-ing: "I tell you, sir, if the civil department of the government, will but do their duty as promptly as the military have done theirs, this trouble will soon be over" This remark greeted the ears of the writer while standing near the door, hat in hand, awaiting seme encouragement to be seated. Looking towards him General Sherman said, "take a chair, sir, I'll see you di-rectly." The staff (for such they were presumed to be) now took their leave, and said: "So you are an editor."

The writer replied that he was part owner of the Progress, but was not the

I know that fellow of old, he has hung and was profuse in pledges, that a similar cause of complaint should not again arise. "The explanation serves to be sufficient" said Sherman, "but you must be on guard in future; go on with your paper, but be certain not to publish anything concerning the actions or movements of this army unless you are authorized to do so." The writer asked him if anything could be said about the surrender of General Johnston, and, if so, what? Sherman, replied; "Say nothing, unless, as I said efore, you are authorized." The writer now bid the General Good Day and retired. He had reached the yard about half way between the front door and gate, when an orderly eral Sherman to come back. In compliance with this, he returned, and was met at the door by the General who said: "You folks down here have been shut up so long that I thought perhaps a drink of good spirits might be acceptable. I have just tried some, won't you have a drink?" The writer was too scared not to obey this order, although it was couched in the form of a reguest. Again retiring, he hurried to his office to convey the welcome tidings of the in-

As if to make some amends for the fright he had imposed by his order, General Sherman, was particularly attentive to the Progress during the remainder of his stay in Raleigh. The day after the above interview, he came into the office and called twenty copies of the paper, which, he said he desired to send North. The writer handed them to him. He inquired the price. Nothing was the reply. "Oh! but, said he, I know you can't publish your paper for nothing, so here's your pay," at the same time tendering a dollar bill which was reluctantly received. leniency displayed by Gen. Sherman on the occasion above alluded to, was, by any means characteristic of all the officers of the army, as the cold indif-ference exhibited in relation to the many acts of cruelty and outrage in the surrounding country plainly shows to

It has been shown that our stock of fish has been sadly reduced and will fish has been sadly reduced and will soon be exhausted, if nothing is done to arrest the process of destruction. This evil result, this great calamity is due solely to a stupid and selfish and short-sighted disregard of the plainest dictates of common sense. Fish of all kinds have been recklessly taken without regard to their spawning season, and so their propagation has been checked. Fish dams and manufacturing and so their propagation has been checked. Fish dams and manufacturing dams have prevented the fish from reaching their spawning grounds. Fishing has been carried on by most destructive engines, so arranged as to effectually prevent the ascent of migratory fish in any numbers from the ocean and sounds nto the rivers. Now there are several ways of restoring the former abundance of fish to our waters; as for example, to stop fishing for a few years or to in-termit fishing certain days in the week, subject only to such an occasional resurrection as may serve to while away and remove the obstructions which have been placed in the stream, or to tish only with the simpler and more primitive crazy: chased everything around and with the simpler and more primitive appliances, such as hook and line &c., until nature shall restore the equilibrium; or to hatch fish artificially. The last is the quickest and most certain means of accomplishing the result. In some of our eastern waters, the arrest of fishing on account of the war, produced a marvelous abundance of fish. They were, however, speedily exterminated again in a year or two, by the most wasteful and wanton method of fishing. But the efficacy of this mode of re-stocking the efficacy of this mode of re-stocking the waters was sufficiently proven. It is enforced by law in many States. Virginia has just adopted it, suspending opera-tions except with hook and line, in all non-tide waters for six years. A similar proposition was defeated in our last Legislature; the members evidently preferring the present suspension from dearth of fish, permanent, by refusing any means for increasing their numbers, except so far as certain neighborhoods demanded local measures for this purpose. Most States and counties, however, have supplemented this method by artificial hatching. The success of this method of re-stocking depleted rivers is established beyond peradventure, by the experience of all Europe and of most of the States of this country. For example, a few years ago, shad had almost disappeared from the Hudson and Connecticut rivers; so that a pair sold in necticut rivers; so that a pair sold in the first method by artificial hatching. The success of this method of re-stocking depleted rivers is established beyond peradventure, by the experience of all Europe and of most of the States of this country. For example, a few years ago, shad had almost disappeared from the Hudson and Connecticut rivers; so that a pair sold in the first f us, at $1.00 to $1.25. Now they are abundant at $3.00 per hundred. They are a drug in the market. This change was accomplished in three years, by artificial hatching, whereas, many years may that "won't break." Seasonable tificial hatching, whereas, many years would have been required if no such means had been used.

The True Friends of the Negro. [Salisbury Examiner.]
Governor Vance is performing his part of the promises and pledges made to the colored people of the State by the conservatives in the last canvass. His bearing in the meeting of the State Board of Education on the 10th, was so cordial and sincere as to assure the intelligent colored men in attendance that no efforts of his would be lacking to promote their welfare. Indeed, all distinguished members of the State Ed ucational Board were present, co-operating in a very handsome manner in the objects of the meeting, and, it seems, impressed the delegates with the falsity impressions heretofore made on them by Radical teachers, political gamblers, who have used the colored people for their own promotion regardless of their ultimate fate. A Democratic legislature appropriating money to educate teachers for the colored people, and a Democratic Gov-ernor and Educational Board in council to aid in organizing a system for that purpose, is so far removed from the expectations of the colored people them-selves, and so far beyond the scope of the teachings of radical leaders, it is not to be wondered at, that delegates in the late meeting were highly gratified at those evidences of good will, and deemed it appropriate to give expressions to their feelings in view of it. We told the colored people immediately after the election in November. that if they had any true friends in the country they were to be found in the ranks of the Conservative party, and passing events of each day verifies, in one way or another that truth. JAMES REDPATH, the well-known newspaper correspondent and bitter Radical, has written a letter to the colored people of the South, a copy of which has been sent to many newspapers south of the Ohio river, advising them to join the Democratic party on the best terms they can obtain. He tells them they can expect nothing from this administration; that their old masters have more influence with Hayes than they, and it is for their temporal welfare to buy protection for votes from the Democratic party.

The negroes no longer need the advice of Northern men. They are finding out where their true interests lie; and they have never lacked for protection under Democratic rule.

THE death of Hon. John Reilly, late Auditor of North Carolina, has been announced. He died after a long and lingering illness. Though a member of the Republican party while corruption was its chief distinction, John Reilly kept his garments unstained. "Honest John" he was called, and not in derission. He was in many other respects a remarkable man. He served as an officer in the English army, in the Crimean war, and subsequently came to this country to live, settling in Cumberland county. While Auditor of the State he won many friends. There were none who did not recognize his unflinching honesty.

A NUMBER of the Republican papers North are indignant against the Democatic Congressmen from this State for having taken strong ground against making any appropriation for the army of the United States, except on the distinct condition that it shall not be used in the Southern States to stifle the free voice and baffle the expressed will of the people. This was to be expected, and amounts to little or nothing; but it has afforded some of the truest of the Southern journals an opportunity to express their views on the subject. The Petersburg Index-Appeal entirely approves of the position taken by our representatives, and says:

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE N. Y. HERALD.]

CHARLESTO N, April 19, 1877. Governor Hampton's stay in the city to-day has been attended with a repetition, minus the military display, of the ovation with which he was received yesterday. At noon the Governor held public reception at the City Hall upon ne invitation of the Mayor, and was visited by hundreds of colored Republicans, among whom were nearly all the promment leaders of the county.

ADDRESS OF THE GOVERNOR. During the reception the Governor, in response to a call from the colored citizens, addressed them as follows: MY FRIENDS OF CHARLESTON.-If gives me great pleasure to meet you nd particularly so to meet so many of the colored citizens of Charleston tried on the charge of insulting the wife of a this occasion. I want you particularly, not only here but thronghout the whole State, to understand precisely the condition of affairs and the policy I represented in the late election. I know tha it is very natural for you to suppose, having been misled in so many instances, that although a man who is a candidate for office may make promises you cannot know what will be the re-sult of those pledges until you see how the policy has been carried out. All that I have to say to you now—and I say it when victory has crowned our efforts—is that I stand now precisely where I stood twelve years ago. I was the first man in America-certainly the first in the South-who advocated the granting of the right to vote to the colored man. (Applause.) That is on record. Only a few days ago I saw in made by its editor, Whitelaw Reid, that in 1865 I told him that the Northern Republicans would want to take away the right of voting from the colored peo-promising that Congress would make no apple long before the South ever would. During the late convass I made a prediction that the colored people would very soon find that the only protection they had for their elective franchise would be from the white men of the South. You will live see it. REPUBLICAN DESIRE FOR RESTRICTION. I want to tell you an incident which has happened since my election. When I was in Washington recently five or six or more prominent Republicans, men high in position, actually consulted me as to how the vote of the colored man could best be restricted. I tell you what is true. My answer was: "We don't want the vote of the colored man taken away or restricted, for, aside from the friendship we bear this race, their right to vote gives us thirty more votes in Congress, and when peace men in both races and parties will vote together for the Commonwealth. We don't want to take that right away.' (Great applause.) I stand precisely in the position that I took twelve years

NO DISTINCTION OF RACE OR NATIONAL-

> I call every man a Carolinian, whether he is white or black, whether he is born here, at the North or in Europe, who is a good citizen and has the interests of the State at heart, and he is entitled to all the protection that the laws of the State and of the United States and of the United States and vive him. Law states to the last canvass. I can only do the last canvass. I can only do the people of South Carolina will help me. I can do nothing of myself. I may indicate to the Legislature what I consider cate to the Legislature what I consider a proper course for them to pursue, but it is for them to make the laws. My duty is to execute them and your duty is to send the best men to the ture, irrespective of race or party. CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE. Select no man for public office who is not fit to fill the position, I care not what may be his politics or his race. Make it your rule that you will place no man in office unless he is competent If you elect good men to make the laws I pledge to you my honor that those laws shall be framed so as to place every man and woman, of both races and parties, upon an equal footing before the law.

We have just passed through an exciting and bitter contest. If my voice could reach every man in South Carolina, if I could impress it upon them all as I feel it myself, if we wish to consult the best interest of the State, if we want to build up and bring peace and prosperity back to her sunny fields, I would say to one and all: forget for a while at least all about politics and devote yourselves to the material interests of the State. Go to work; resolutions will do nothing; public meetings will do nothing; every man should place his hoisted my little mercantile flag and although shoulder to the wheel; he must go to small and insignificant in size at that time, it work resolutely, honestly, earnestly and boldly in discharge of his duty to bring back harmony and unanimity between the races at the South.

I know, my friends, you can do it. I tell you, my colored fellow-citizens, that I have not one particle of feeling of ill will against a single individual of your race, and it so happened that the first commission that I issued as Governor of the State of South Carolina was issued to a colored man, and a Republican at that. When I was in Washington a colored Republican, an ex-office-holder of the State, Professor Greener, of the State University, came to me and asked for a recommendation I told him that I could not understand Excitement Amongst the Dry Goods. what value my recommendation would be to him, but upon his renewing his equest I gave him a letter, and I told the President that I had not intended o give any recommendation of the late administration in South Carolina, but as Greener was a colored man, had voted for Hayes and stumped the State for Chamberlain, I thought I could afford to make an exception in his case.

APPEAL FOR HIS ADMINISTRATION. What I say to you here I wish every man to repeat. I only say to you, judge the administration by its acts. I don't want you to become Democrats or Conservatives. I ask you to forget all about politics, and I only want the support of those men in South Carolina who believe that I am standing upon the conand adopted is a very good policy to stand up and adopted is a very good policy to stand up and fight for, and Mr. Hayes doesn't seem to man in South Carolina. I have the stitution, obeying the laws and keeping right as Governor of the State to ask that. I have the right to appeal to the people who have elected me, and ask them to hold up my hands as long as I am doing right. When I am doing wrong let them turn their backs upon me, If white men and black men will do this and try and forget all the animosity engendered during the past struggle, if they will remember only that they are Carolinians, that we all have to live here together on this soil, that when we die our bones will crumble away together in the bosom of this devote yourselves heart and hand to build up the State, I tell you that before parties in this State politics. There may be in national politics, but there will be so strong a party of white and black men united together that, practically, we will have no domestic divisions. I have worked and am working for nothing else, and I pledge you my honor that it was the hope to bring about that state of things, and only that hope, so help me God, that induced me to be a candidate for Governor. If it is given to me to bring peace, if it is given to me to restore the prosperity of this State, to see all our people happy and prosperous, I will feel prosperity of this State, to see an our people happy and prosperous, I will feel that my work has been done and I will then be compensated for every sacrifice that I have made. You and I may not live to see this era, but our children and our children's children will rise up to bless the men that worked out their redemention. demption.

EFFECT OF THE SPEECH. This address was heard by the au-dience with profound interest and respect, and the plain, mauly words so candidly uttered, produced a marked effect upon his colored hearers, many of whom openly expressed their satisfac-

THE RICHMOMD STOVE COMPANY, impressed with these advantages, is now engaged in the manufacture of stoves, hollow-ware, grates, fenders, &c., and fine castings, the market for which has hitherto been enjoyed by manufacturers in other States. Enjoying as they do the superior advantages above alluded to, notwithstanding the competition of foreign founders, they are fast building up a trade which is destined to grow with every successive season. Their wares, possessing the strength and toughness of the native metal, must take rank above any made of inferior iron. Their rapidly growing trade having extended to a large portion of the Southern States, the company, therefore, offer to the citizens of these States goods guaranteed to be better, and at as low prices as inferior goods made elsewhere; and they confidently rely upon the support and patronage of their legitimate customers. The company manufactures 50 styles d sizes of cooking stoves, 50 styles id sizes of heating stove, fenders, fine tings in great variety to order, all aranteed, in style, finish and duraty, to be equal in quality and prices, low figures as northern work. The is managed by gentlemen of expece and skill; its officers are courteus, and eminently qualified to discharge the responsible duties devolving great extent, throughout Virginia, West sippi. THE SOUTHERN FERTILIZING COMPANY. This company is an old friend of the farmers and planters in North Carolina. It issues every year exhaustive papers setting forth the then condition and prospects of the trade in the three great staples—cotton, tobacco and grain; and these pamphlets have found their way to most of our farm houses. We have reason to believe that the information thus proffered has been of actual service to every man receiving it.

Wanting, of course, to hold their trade, their work must pay the farmers to use it, and hence they see that no effort is left untried to insure success, with any showing at all of season. Among other manufactories of fertilizers we have to notice that of MR. A. S. LEE, who is putting up large quantities of his Prepared Agricultural Lime. He has three lime kilns that are kept con-

The oldest house in the seed and fer-tilizer line of business in Virginia is the well-known and popular firm of

ALLISON & ADDISON. which was organized in 1865, and enjoys a reputation in Virginia and North Carolina, for promptness, reliability, honesty and fair dealing, equal to any in the country.

These fertilizers rank with the very est preparations extant, as is attested by hundreds of certificates from leading tarmers in Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and other States. They are standard articles for cotton, corn, and all the cereals, and greatly increase the yields of these crops.

To meet the increased demand for these articles, and in order to better accommodate their customers, they have opened depots of supply at Norfolk and Petersburg, Va., and at Winston, They are connected with the firm Henshaw & Co., where they keep on hand large supplies of all articles in their line, and are prepared to execute all orders with promptness and dispatch. We copy the following from the Southern Planter and Farmer: "We need hardly say that no firm in the South has paid more attention to the subject of fertilizers than Messrs. Allison & Addison, or that, as the result of large and varied experience, is better enabled to speak with authority upon the subject. Their book on 'Grasses, Seeds and Fertilizers,' which they send gratis to all, deserves to be in the hands of every planter and farmer in the country."

One of the leading commission houses in Richmond is that of HILL & SKINKER. who deal largely in tobacco and fertilizers. The firm was established in I866. and has conducted a prosperous and rapidly increasing business in Virginia and North Carolina. Both members of the firm are young gentlemen of more than 12 years experience, and by industry, energy perseverance, and strict atter tion to business, together with eminent qualifications, have built up an enviable reputation for honesty and fair dealing, unsurpassed by any house in the city. They have a very large trade in North Carolina, and claim that it is larger than that of any other house in their line. While they transact a general commission business, they make a specialty of leaf tobacco and the standard fertilizers manufactured by G. Ober & Sons, of Baltimore. Messrs. Hill & Skinker are general agents for these celebrated fertilizers for Virginia and North Carolina, and have introduced them extensively in these States, and they have given entire satisfaction wherever used; they are also heavy dealers in high grade Peruvian guano. imber one, and they belong to that class of merchants known in commercial

They are the manufacturers and sole proprietors of Meade & Baker's, Celebrated Saponine Dentrifice, which they claim to be the best in use, and it is nighly recommended by the best den-tists of Richmond. They are also the proprietors of Meade & Baker's Carbolic Mouth Wash, which is also highly en-dorsed by the leading dentists and physicians of the city.

They are agents of French medicinal preparations, and keep on hand surgical d medical appliances of all kinds. The tooth powder, mouth wash and cod liver oil of this firm are extensively used in Virginia and North Carolina. Dealers would do well to send for paice list or their special preparations.

PURCELL, LADD & CO., WHOLKSALE DRUG-

This house, one of the oldest in Richmond, and perhaps one of the oldest drug establishments in the South, was established in 1847, and has been in existence under the management of the same firm and proprietors for thirty years. Their business extends princi-pall, through Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina, though their trade, through certain specialties, extends to many of the States North and South. They are extensively engaged and P.madelphia, comprising everything in their line of business—drugs, medicines, chemicals, paints, oils of every wholesale grocers, liquor merchants and dealers in fish, flour, teas, soaps, provisions and general assortment of grocers' goods. This Louse has been engaged extensively in the grocery and liquor business for ten years, and has built up an enviable trade in their line in Virginia, North and South Carolina. The senior member of the firm has been The senior member of the firm has been a leading member of the Board of Trade of Richmond—one of its directors, and chairman of the Inland Trade Committee, all of which positions he filled with redit to himself and satisfaction to the board. This firm are proprietors of the two celebrated Ellendale and Excelsion brands of flour, and are also wholes: agents for Hanger & Co.'s far famed Virginia pure rye whiskey; also pro-prietors of R. & McC. Cabinet Rye, and other liquors too numerous to mention. SEDDON & BRUCE one of the leading wholesale graceries, established in 1870, is transacting a large business in North Carolina, and possesses unusual advantages for sup-plying that trade. The senior member of the firm is the son of the Hon. Jas. A. Seddon, Secretary of War of the Confederate States. The junior member of the firm, T. Seddon Bruce, son of Mr. Chas. Bruce, who was educated at Chapel Hill, and whose brother, Mr. Jas. C. Bruce, was one of the warmest friends and supporers of that institution, and whose six sons were also educated there.

Messrs. Seddon & Bruce are gentlemen of culture, high social standing, energy, perseverance, experience and eminently qualified to transact business in their line. They are the sele agents in Virginia of the famous and celebrated Gillet's Cream Yeast Powder, favorably known throughout the United States and Europe. The firm makes a specialty of coffee, which they import in large quantities and supply the markets of Chicago, Cincinnati, Indianopolis, Milwaukee, Memphis, St. Louis, Louis-ville, Dayton, Toledo, Atlanta, Charleston, Pittsburg and all the cities and towns of Virginia and North Carolina One of the oldest and most prosperous wholesale groceries, and one that has enjoyed continuous and extensive patronage through the vicissitudes of the last 16 years, is that of

A. L. ELLETT & CO., who occupy the large five-story brick building, Nos. 10, 12 and 14, Twelfth street. The firm is composed A. L. Ellett, A. J. Watkins, Clay Drury and S. B. Hughes, gentlemen of long and successful experience. The senior member of the firm has been engaged in the dry goods trade since 1848, and was one of the few merchants who continued operations through the war, until he was burnt out by the fire of April

In 1870 the house was reorganized under the present firm name, and has steadily increased its operations in Virginia, Tennessee, North and South Carolina. The past success of the house is a sufficient guarantee of its future prosperity. The proprietors-claim that its business surpasses that of any in Richmond, and that the purchase tax paid by them exceeds that of any other house in Virginia.

This magnificent establishment is a model of neatness and systematic arrangements for the prompt execution of the business in all its details. The basement is used for receiving and packing goods, making and repairing boxes and storing the heavy domestic cotton goods. It has been conducting a successful business throughout this long period of great vicissitudes. During the career of the house it has supplied, to a great extent, the North Carolina trade, and has given universal satisfaction. The proprietors claim that it is the largest house in their line south of Philadelphia. They also act as agents for the sale of some brown sheetings, shirtings and osnaburgs manufactured in Virginia and North Carolina. WINGO, ELLETT & CRUMP. They occupy the large four story brick building, No. 1308, Main street, 130 feet deep by 26 in width, which they have well stocked from top to bottom with boots and shoes. The firm is composed of C. E. Wingo, John S. Ellett and James D. Crump. They are energetic and industrious young men, who in 1870 formed the firm and have been prosecuting a successful and rapidly increasing business. The house now claims that its business equals that of any other house in the city in this line, extending throughout Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina and Georgia. The most of the goods sold by this firm are made to their own or-der, and are of superior quality and style, and are especially adapted to the North Carolina trade. In connection with their large wholesale business they have a first class uptown retail store, where they do a large city trade. We most cheerfully recommend this house to the trade in North Carolina, believing their superior facilities enable them to compete successfully with Slim Attendance on a Pack ard Caucus--A Document Pre-pared for Assisting in Mr. Tilden's Quo Warrauto Case. WASHINGTON, April 21.—The Tribune's New Orleans dispatch of yesterday says that Gov. Packard's caucus this morning had only forty members. A paper was exhibited, prepared for the signatures of the tures of the supervisors of election of the parish of Orleans, certifying that they had fraudulently given the vote of the parish to Hayes, and that it belong. ed to Tilden by a considerable majority. It was said in caucus that this document, when signed, will be sent to Tilden for use in the quo warranto proceedin s against the President. The correspondent says that ignorant colored men, and a few desperate and disreputable white men, believe they can take revenge by a method of this kind.

THE APPROACHING WAR. Roumania in a Stew-Appeals for Protection-The Russian General Stail-Movements of Troops.

LONDON, April 21.—The mail boat between Brest and the Island of Ushant was wrecked. Eight passengers and the entire crew were lost. A special from Vienna to the Times says: "Quite a panic reigns in Rou-mania about the Turkish invasion. The Roumanian government has applied in its extremity to the powers, and is becoming more pressing in its demand to be saved. They have also turned to the Turkish government, remonstrating against the occupation of Roumania by Turkish troops. The answer has not been reassuring, Turkey saying the passage of Turkish troops to the Rou-manian side would depend on Turkish military affairs, but that if this happens in consequence of the entry of the Russian troops, the Porte declines the responsibility for Roumania being turned into the theatre of the war.' A special dispatch from Vienna to the Telegraph says: "Roumania cannot prevent the passage of the Russian armies through her territory, as she has vainly sought support to do so from the powers, but she can and will rigor-ously abstain from armed participation if Turkey does not cross the Danube also, and will herself occupy Kalafat with her own troops to prevent the Russians getting that position. But if Turkey persists in its proposed action, Roumania will be compelled to cast her lot with the only power capable of affording her material protection against such a terrible calamity. Roumania's position is one of critical and imminent peril.' Reuter telegram from Bucharest has the following: "The Russian general staff has left Kischeneff for Ungheni The cavalry force is marching towards the Danube. The artillery is concentrated at Ungheni, and the infantry massed in the direc-tion of Chotin, Sculeni and Ungheni. ready received the following manifesto and the

Clothiers. Cost of Cotton Production. [Edward Atkinson in the N. Y. Herald.]

In answer to a very extended inquiry tely made, the writer has received estimates of the cost of the production of per pound, the latter cost, however, having been given by one who on 600 Crude turpentine steady at 1.25 for hard and acres of land made only four bales the 2.10 for yellow dlp; 2.10 for virgin. Tar previous year. The general range of the estimates of cost were six to ten cents. But one answer to the question of cost was the most significant. One said :- "I have a nephew twenty years of age who, without the least detriment to his schooling, and working Saturdays produced four bales of cotton." It may be asked what did this lad's cotton cost to produce? The average cost is nine and six tenth cents per pound; those who give the higher rates basing their estimates upon the purchase of provisons at present prices : those who give the estimates of six to seven cents basing them upon provisions being raised on the same farm. The significant fact in all the estimates is that the lowest come from Texas, North Carolina and Georgia, which are essentially farming States, while the highest come from Mississippi and Louisiana, the States which were formerly par excellence the country of the large planters. The Worth of a Wife. At the Manchester assizes, England, cently, a person named Birtles sued the London and Northwestern Railroad Company for compensation for the loss of his wife, who had met with her death in an accident. The plaintiff claimed $2,500, which included $650 for doctor's bills and $550 for the expenses of the the funeral and "mourning." The remainder was put down to expenses and "loss of services." It appeared that since his wife's death poor Birtles had engaged his sister-in-iaw as housekeep-er. The judge ruled that the charge for mourning could not be allowed, and it was not certain that the plaintiff ould recover for the funeral expenses. The jury awarded the plaintiff the sum claimed for doctor's bills, and $175 for the cost of nurses, etc., and they also thought that he was entitled to the fueral expenses; but with regard to the claim for loss of services they were of ppinion that a housekeeper was cheaper than a wife, and refused the claim.
